

ANTITRUST AND BUSINESS COMPETITION ANALYSIS AND LITIGATION

BHGR attorneys have a wide range of experience advising clients regarding antitrust and business competition matters. Our team of attorneys advises clients about the competitive implications of their business decisions and handles all phases of antitrust litigation matters.

Our attorneys can assist businesses large and small to assess whether their proposed activities have potential anti-competitive risks. The antitrust laws are broad in scope and can apply to many common business decisions. Business leaders should take proactive steps to evaluate whether their strategies implicate this complex set of laws. We help our clients develop practical solutions to complicated problems. The antitrust laws are implicated in a variety of arenas including intellectual property and employment law.

In addition, BHGR attorneys have extensive litigation experience in antitrust and other business competition cases. Our team has defended against tying claims, monopolization claims, conspiracy to monopolize, and conspiracy to eliminate competition by unfair means. Such claims involve the often complicated intersection between the antitrust laws and market economics. Our team also regularly advises on and litigates trade secret, unfair competition, fraudulent transfer, and other business tort matters. Our antitrust lawyers are well-versed in handling all phases of trial work from the inception of a case through any appeals. We work closely with our clients to handle cases efficiently from the pleading stage and through the discovery phase, trial, and the appellate phase. We look for innovative ways to minimize potential risks in antitrust and competition law matters.

Our Antitrust and Business Competition Analysis and Litigation Attorneys

- George V. Berg, Jr., Managing and Founding Partner
- Kathleen T. Alt, Partner
- Katie Pratt, Associate
- Patrick M. Haines, Associate
- J. Mark Smith, Special Counsel